

MISCELLANEOUS

THE item in Tuesday's dispatches to the effect that some of the chiefs of the Democracy had determined to cast the influence of the National Committee in favor of ex-Secretary of the Navy Whitney instead of for ex-President Cleveland in 1892, is a significant straw. Mr. Whitney is very rich; the whole Standard Oil syndicate is behind him; he believes, moreover, in a moderate tariff, in coast defenses and subsidies to steamers to foreign ports. The Salt Lake Tribune says all will remember how furious he was last winter at Bayard because he would not authorize vigorous orders to our commander in the Samoan waters; he was really the only live man in President Cleveland's Cabinet until Don Dickinson got a place there, and we can imagine that his friends would really promise, with him for a candidate, to carry New York and possibly the State of his father-in-law, Ohio. But what would the Cleveland Democracy in the North and the Watson-Carlisle Democracy of the South have to say to such a platform as Mr. Whitney would desire to stand upon? Then what would Mr. Cleveland have to say? With him there can be no divided control. He at present believes that he is the only man the Democracy can go into a fight with any hope of winning. That gave him the nomination last year, and despite the defeat, he believes that his star is still in the ascendant. But after all the decision will be made not in the National Democratic Committee, but in the White House. If President Harrison is a big enough man to handle his trust with full justice to all the country, it will not matter who shall be nominated against him; if he is not, it will not be difficult to elect a Democratic President in 1892. We think we speak for the whole West when we say that if the present Administration shall neglect the West as Mr. Cleveland did, the West will, in 1892, do precisely what it did in 1888—repudiate the party that neglects its trust. If the Treasury Department shall remain a mere annex to Wall street; if petty trades at the sacrifice of principle shall be made with enemies of the country; if there shall be weakness and vacillation when the question of supporting an Eastern monopoly despite the law, or, under the law, standing by thousands of honest workmen, it will not matter much who is named in opposition to a policy of that kind he will get the support of the West.

Young men looking over the published accounts of the June commencements in various colleges and high schools, to which their sisters have been admitted with equal privileges, will doubtless take note of the fact that more than two thirds of all class medals and honors have been captured by the young women. If they see no lesson in it, it is all the more to their discredit. The Oakland Times says that before twenty years pass young women in the United States will have equal opportunities for higher education with young men. There is no doubting the fact that unless they settle down to old-fashioned methods of study the male sex will have to take back seats. Baseball and football and skill at the oar are all well enough, but they will not take the place of mathematical problems and digging among Greek roots. The great evil of to-day—and it is especially true of the young men in Eastern universities—is the young men have given them too much spending money. (Old Simon Cameron never uttered a more expressive sentence than when, speaking of his son's and his own opportunities, he remarked: "Yes, Don has grand opportunities that I did not have; but I had poverty, which Don has not.") Poverty has made a hundred great men to every single one made by wealth. The father that fills the pocket-book of his boy in college offers a premium for "wild oats," and nine times in ten will be disappointed when harvest time is reached.

NEVADA would do well to follow the example set by Montana's Constitutional Convention, held at Helena, by changing the Constitution and making a two-year residence essential to hold office.

TOWNS THAT THRIVE.

And the Reasons Why Others Do Not.

The following, from the Colusa (Cal.) Sun, applies to all towns: We find this fact to exist, that no community ever prospered, no town ever grew, without some sort of combined effort for the general good—without some expenditure of money. The towns that have happened to possess men who have worked together for the general good have forged ahead, while those that have had men of greater conservatism, who have been content to sit down and let fortune come, have gone to decay, or have not progressed. People who would progress must do something—must take some chances. Some towns have invested in railroads, and have made it win. At this age it is hard to call to mind a town that has grown to any importance without having put out some sort of exertion; without having done something other than to sit down and let prosperity come or go, according to its whim. Towns and communities, as well as individuals, must seize opportunities.

All Same Kilrain.

His Right Under the Rules.—"Willie," said his father, solemnly, reaching for the trunk strap, "your mother sent you up here an hour ago to be punished, and because I was busy at the moment you sneaked down stairs again. WATER STORAGE.

Where the Most of the Reservoirs are to be Located.
A San Francisco dispatch of the 19th inst. reads as follows: Last April Colonel Lyman Bridges of this city was appointed Divisional Civil Engineer of the United States Geological Survey Department. He was given charge of the Tahoe Division, which consists of the great basin lying east of the crest of the Sierras in California and all of the State of Nevada. Colonel Bridges to-day gave a full account of his work, and of the interesting facts were ascertained.

There are two thoroughly organized parties now in the field. The first is at the head of the Carson river, and the second at the headwaters of the Truckee basin. These parties are locating reservoirs to store flood waters and conduct them out on the plateaus and plains of Eastern California and the State of Nevada. Natural lakes and reservoir sites for building dams have been selected. Among these are Donner and Independence lakes. The former will be increased to four times the latter to three times its present capacity. A reservoir will be made out of the dam of the Truckee river above Truckee City and also one of Eagle Lake.

The reservoirs have been located on the Little Truckee, below Lake Washoe. The Truckee river will be turned above Washoe to the plains and plateaus east of Washoe. There is also to be a tunnel from Lake Tahoe to supply Carson Valley, and a reservoir site has been established and located at the head of Hope Valley, a canyon on the west fork of the Carson river. This will have a surface of five miles of water, fifty feet in depth.

Donner Lake will be raised twenty feet. On the middle fork of the Carson river, at Pleasant Valley, a dam and reservoir have been located. On the east or main fork of the Carson river, at Silver King canyon and valley, there is a reservoir site that will impound water in an area of about three square miles, forty to fifty feet in depth.

Half a mile above the mouth of Wolf creek, at its junction with the east fork of the Carson river, another site has been selected, covering two square miles. A dam to complete this natural landlocked-reservoir is located a mile and a half above Carson Valley. It is capable of holding six square miles of water, with an average depth of forty feet. The east fork of the Carson forms a junction in Alpine county, Cal., making the east fork the main river below a point about twenty miles above Long Valley.

As there is a narrow gorge through solid rock half a mile below Horseshoe Bend, a dam will be built through it to throw the main river back to Horseshoe Bend. Here there is a narrow divide between the main river and Long Valley, not over 1,000 feet in length, which will enable a tunnel through this divide to deliver such an amount of water as may be required to keep the reservoir in Long Valley full to its maximum.

It is proposed now to build a canal from this grand Long Valley reservoir along the high foothills of the eastern slope of Carson Valley. Should this be accomplished, it will reclaim some of the richest plateau lands now covered only with sagebrush. A short and the east fork the main river below a point about twenty miles above Long Valley, not over 1,000 feet in length, which will enable a tunnel through this divide to deliver such an amount of water as may be required to keep the reservoir in Long Valley full to its maximum.

In addition to the above there will be a diverting dam built at the toll-house, one mile above Hope Canyon, on the west fork. The object is to divert the water either into the Long Valley canal or along the foothills at the foot of the mountain slopes on the west side of the valley. It will extend along the valley toward the north, and passing Sheridan to Genoa, these waters will then join the Carson river. Locations for future reservoirs are now being carefully studied. One of these is in Double Spring Valley, located on the Carson & Colorado road. Water from it can be conveyed into the east fork through either Antelope, Smith or Mason Valleys as may be required.

After a discussion of the whole of this broad question, Colonel Bridges said: "During the three months that we have been in the field the progress made has been something enormous. Nine-tenths of the water heretofore has got into the sluice—such as the Carson and Pyramid. Our work is going to change all this and practically revolutionize Nevada. Of one thing I am certain, and that is that the population of Nevada will be doubled in an exceedingly short time."

Twenty-five new township plats and 102 abstracts were completed and forwarded to the Assessor of Washoe county.

A Demoralized Vehicle.
This forenoon as Mart Grotton was driving a lively bronco attached to a cart in front of the First National Bank, on Virginia street, the festive bronco kicked, breaking one of the shafts and throwing the driver out.

The now thoroughly frightened animal turned west into Second street, but proceeded but a short distance before he was secured. The driver was not injured but the cart was a total wreck.

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence.
C. W. Williams has lost a coat—see 50-cent ad.

W. B. Daugherty will organize his class in bookkeeping this evening in the Sanderland building.

The trotting race, best two in three between the horses of Leper, Hill and Van Wagner came off this afternoon too late for to-day's GAZETTE.

All resorts on the margin of Lake Tahoe are said to be full, patronized, and the fish are biting better than ever before known at this time of the year.

A CARD FROM MR. ALLEN
Showing Why the Social Evil Law has not been enforced.

This morning's Journal contains the following: The resolution of the Grand Jury discharged from further duty on the 18th inst. and published in yesterday's issue of this Journal, implies that the Sheriff and District Attorney have failed to do their duty in certain cases.

So far as the law relative to houses of prostitution is concerned, I respect its provisions the same as any other law, and have (and will) do my duty in enforcing it.

All possessing common intelligence know to convict any one of a crime the party accused must be proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, and to do this requires evidence, not irresponsible assertions.

As yet, applying facts to the law, there has been no case presented to me warranting a complaint against or arrest of any person for letting or renting a house in violation of the Act referred to.

There have been facts presented that did and do warrant a complaint and arrest of a party for keeping a house of ill-fame in violation of the provisions of the law, and ten days ago I prepared a complaint which has been since in the Justice's office, but no one can be or has been found who will swear to it.

If any member of the ex-Grand Jury will have the kindness to swear to the complaint that has been, and is awaiting an informant, I shall tax any ability I may possess to secure a conviction, or if any of them, or any other citizen will place before me a case that will warrant a complaint and arrest, he can command my official services either day or night.

I have ever stood ready, and do stand ready to do any duty imposed upon me under the Act relative to houses of prostitution, or under either Act, all of which can be and will be verified by the local and county officers.

D. ALLEN,
District Attorney.
Reno, July 19, 1889.

SHIPPING STOCK.
Large Herds of Cattle Being Sent Out of the State.

The Winnemucca Silver State of the 19th inst. says: Miller & Lux, who own extensive tracts of land in the vicinity of Summit Lake, have contracted with Cummings & Murdoch, who are extensive cattle owners themselves, to drive 2,000 head of cattle from the ranges in this county to the Feather river, in Yuba county, Cal. The first drive will start about August 15th and the next will follow before September 1st.

In consequence of the prolonged drought, feed is scarce in Nevada than ever before, and cattlemen are afraid to take the chances of getting stock through the winter on their ranges. Thousands of head have been driven or shipped out of the State this summer, those from Elko county going to Idaho or Montana, and those from this county principally to California. Russell & Bradley have sent several thousand head to Montana. Brandenstein & Co. have shipped two or three trainloads to California, and Miller & Lux may drive more than the number above mentioned over the mountains, though by retaining lands, and judiciously using water they have doubled their hay crop this season.

A Hard Fall.
This afternoon as P. B. Comstock was driving along Virginia street in a light buggy, his horse became frightened near the "Atlantic" corner, opposite the Bank, and a few lively jumps threw Mr. Comstock out onto the hard street between Mart Parrott's gun-shop and Lane's shoe-shop, and, being a heavy man, the effect of the fall was to render him unconscious for several minutes, but he finally rallied and is not thought to be seriously hurt.

Still at the Front.
A careful perusal of the new ad. of the Palace Dry Goods and Carpet House in to-day's paper will convince you that instead of sending below or East for your dry goods you can save money by buying at home. The lucrative trade which this enterprising firm has built up in the past two years shows that their goods and prices suit.

Baseball.
The Reno Baseball Club will go up to Truckee to-morrow to play a friendly game with that club. It is thought the League schedule will be so far made up as to permit the first game to be played a week from to-morrow.

There will be a meeting of those who subscribed to the Baseball Association the early part of next week.

Painful Accident.
Last evening Walter Morton, while engaged in extracting a cap from a shotgun cartridge, met with a very painful accident. The cartridge exploded from some unknown reason, badly lacerating his hand. It is hoped, however, that he will not suffer the loss of any portion of it.

Moved Their Quarters.
This afternoon the Reno Guards moved their armory from Armory Hall over Chase & Church's saloon to the Pavilion. All the apparatus of their gymnasium was also moved.

Thought to Have Succeeded.
At Winnemucca on the 19th inst. a German by the name of Louis Altag died under circumstances that lead to a suspicion that he was killed by poison. An inquest was to be held.

Onto Their Rates.
The Postmaster-General reduced the rate on Government telegraphic messages from one cent to one mill per word. He informs the telegraph companies, which objected to the reduction, that the rate proposed was fixed upon information furnished by the Department, that it was no less than that charged various corporations. Under such circumstances, he would not feel justified in making for the Government a new contract at higher rates than are charged parties, especially so in view of the privileges and benefits extended to the telegraph companies by Acts of Congress.

Penmanship.
Now is the time to learn to write, during the summer vacation. Prof. W. E. A Vacation Well Spent.
Three school-boys of Lemapo, Cal., put in their vacation by working a claim on the beach near Point Sal. They did not work more than eight hours a day for twenty-four days, and their profits were $80 apiece.

The Closing of an Important Outlet.
The blockade of a port is not more injurious to its commerce than is even the temporary obstruction of the bowels to the health of the system. Constipation necessarily arrests the secretion of bile, impedes and disorders digestion, and poisons the circulation. The safest and most effective, as it is also the most genial, laxative and anti-bilious medicine in existence is Hecol's Stomach Bitters, and it is more than probable that its averageness as a preventive and remedy for intermittent and remittent fever is largely due to its reforming action upon the liver, an organ prejudicially involved in all malarial complaints. Persons with a tendency also to rheumatism, neuralgia and kidney trouble can not do better than to antagonize it with Hecol's Stomach Bitters, which invariably checks it at the outset. The weak, moreover, are invigorated with strength by this fine invigorant.
